Tick Awareness Infographic

May is Tick Awareness Month, and if your team works outdoors, it's time to take the threat seriously.

Across North America, tick populations are exploding — and with them, dangerous diseases like Lyme disease, anaplasmosis, and Rocky Mountain spotted fever are on the rise. Outdoor workers in construction, landscaping, parks, utilities, and education face the highest risk — often without even knowing it.

Download this infographic to help train your employees.

